> Cat in a Mine. After spending two years in the depths of a coal mine a cat owned by James Warke of Ashley, has returned to him. The cat was such an inveterate thief that Mrs. Warke insisted two years ago that it should be killed or lost. Several attempts to lose it failed, and Warke, who is a miner, then put him in a bag and took him to one of the lowest levels of the No. 20 colliery. There he flourished and grew fat. There was fine hunting, the big 22, 1907, from 5:00 to 7:00 p. in. mine rats being numerous and daring. Recently the mine was shut down, and as there was no more grain in the stables the rats left! Now there is no more hunting, and the cat made its appearance at Warke's home. How it got out of the mine is a mystery. Meet me at the Chicken Pie Sunper at Epworth church Friday even-
